It is my hope and desire that for this last mentioned purpose you may be able to meet sometime during the last week of this month or the first week of January for the purpose of outlining the work of your committee and agreeing upon the best possible way of securing satisfactory results.

It is my expectation that this committee among other things would seek to secure and report on First, the cost of the Grand Forks mill and elevator project up to the present time, and what is the condition of the portion of the mill and elevator erected when it is ready to plant and building to plans and specifications.

WOMAN SHERIFF READY TO HANG MAN

"I'll Do My Duty," Says Iowa Officer. After Capturing Slayer and Getting Confession

By N. A. Service
Waukon, Ia., Dec. 23.—I'm ready to do my duty.

The speaker, Gunda Martindale, a woman and a mother, and sheriff of Alameda county.

"Her duty" may be hanging a man—a man accused of slaying one of Mrs. Martindale's best friends.

If Parle Thorpe is convicted of the brutal slaying of his former sweetheart, Miss Inga Magnuson, young school teacher Mrs. Martindale will have to spring the trap that will send Thorpe to his death.

Thorpe is said to have confessed. Officially he plans to plead guilty. That is taken to mean the death sentence, so high does public sentiment run.

Widow of Sheriff
Mrs. Martindale is the widow of a sheriff. On her husband's death the board of supervisors appointed her to fill his office.

A woman could do it easily, they said—even a frail woman like Mrs. Martindale—for Alameda county was a law-abiding community.

Then—Mrs. Magnuson's mutilated body was found in the basement of her rural school house.

The woman sheriff was informed. She telephoned for bloodhounds.

She asked a neighbor woman to care for her children.

Lead Pursuit
She clad herself in rough serviceable clothing. She started the bloodhounds on their hunt.

Over country roads ankle deep in mud across frozen hills and fields all right the little woman followed the bloodhounds until—

The trail led into the next county and Sheriff Martindale placed Thorpe under arrest as he was about to board a train in the next county.

She took her prisoner back to Waukon.

An angry mob of farmers and townspeople gathered there was talk of a lynching.

But Mrs. Martindale stood off the crowd.

I shall see to it that my prisoner gets justice, she said.

She took Thorpe to the jail. All night she cross-questioned him.

She gathered the evidence on which the state will base its case when Thorpe's case comes up.

Then at last she went home to sleep and to "catch up" with the housework.

Next April the Rev. Winifred H. Robb, a clergyman and sheriff of Polk county will be called upon to hang Eugene Weeks and Orris L. Eason, convicted of murder.

Commutations of sentences of twenty-three other prisoners convicted of violating war time laws also were announced.

Town Criers Contest Closes Saturday Night. It Is Announced

CALLS FOR MORE ENTRIES

Last Slogan May Be Best, Committee Emphasizes In Asking Entries

One more day in which to get under the wire in the Bismarck Slogan contest.

The Town Criers publicity committee announced today that the contest positively will close Saturday, December 24.

All slogans mailed on the 24th will be considered by judges in awarding the $30 in prizes offered.

During this week slogans have come in to the secretary of the Town Criers club at a lively rate. It is hoped that the number probably 300 will be raised to 600 by Saturday night.

Be cause many slogans mailed Saturday may not reach the secretary for two or three days, since many come from small towns in the western part of North Dakota the slogans will not be assembled for the judges until the first part of the week.

Judges who will select the three best slogans are C. L. Young, president of the Commercial club; Bart Finney, president of the Rotary club; and R. W. Lumry, president of the Town Criers club.

The Town Criers club members will vote upon these at their next regular meeting probably the first week in January.

There is still a good chance to win the capital prize. It was emphasized today by the committee. The last slogan may prove to be the best.

While the Town Criers reserve the right to reject any or all slogans it is hoped that the contest will not only bring out the right slogan for Bismarck but also will result in a slogan which is a neatly worked out design to be used in advertising Bismarck.

One More Day In Which To Vote For Most Polite Clerks

As the Rotary club contest draws to a close, The Tribune has been busy compiling the votes and getting the returns ready for the committee. More than 100 votes have been received dominating in excess of 60 clerks.

All votes received up to noon Saturday will be counted but the contest will close promptly at that hour and no votes delivered after noon tomorrow can be counted.

The Rotary club is being commended for its interest in this contest and the educational value of the contest drive has been great.

Many people have come to The Tribune office and expressed their gratitude over the contest drive which the contest was conducted and the enthusiasm in some of the patrons over their favorite clerks has been most inspiring to those who have had an opportunity to read all the sentiments.

Those who have neglected to vote have until noon Saturday to do so.

Harvey Church Will Hang For Killing Carl Ausmus and Bernard Daugherty

KILLED MEN IN BASEMENT

Bought Automobile Then Lured Salesmen to Accomplish Killing

Chicago, Dec. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Harvey Church of this city was convicted of the murder of two auto salesmen here this morning and sentenced to be hanged. Church was convicted of killing Carl Ausmus and Bernard Daugherty in the basement of his home when they delivered a car to him late one evening in July. The vote of the jury which made the conviction was unanimous.

Church who was twenty-one years of age was arrested a few days after the murder at his old home at Adams, Wis. whether in company with his mother he had driven the car the two salesmen had delivered to him.

The body of Ausmus was dug up under the floor of the garage at the church home while the body of Daugherty was found in the basement of the church home following the finding of the body of Daugherty revealed traces of a struggle in the basement and articles of clothing belonging to the two men. The finding of the body of Ausmus followed this search.

Following his arrest Church was returned to Chicago, where at intervals he made three different confessions of the crime claiming at first that he accomplished the murders alone and later that he had accomplices. Both of his victims were of athletic build Daugherty having been a famous football player at an eastern college. Church was small and slight and was not considered by the police the physical equal of either Ausmus or Daugherty.

In his original confession, he told of buying the car from the two salesmen of luring them to his home, and then individually to the basement where he accomplished the killing.

Prospects for a winning team are not considered as good as in past years. Two veterans, Lyle Gies and George Newland, both forwards, and the latter captain are the veterans. New men many of them veterans in other lines of sport who look good in the preliminary skirmishes are Melvin Williams, Wyle Nelson and Rodney Love at center Eugene Burdick has Skycd football captain-elect at guards and Henry Pfennig at forward.

Much of the faith of the locals that the team will make a good showing is placed in Karl Erickson coach, who is directing the basketball destinies of Mandan for the fourth year. In his several years of coaching his teams have invariably been in the running. The Class A schedule includes:

- Dec. 23—Glendive, Mont. at Mandan.
- Jan. 14—Valley City at Mandan.
- Jan. 31—Double header—Fargo at Mandan Beach at Mandan.
- Jan. 28—Bismarck at Mandan.
- Feb. 3—Mandan at Dickinson.
- Feb. 4—Jamestown at Mandan.
- Feb. 10—Mandan at Beach.
- Feb. 11—Mandan at Glendive, Mont.
- Feb. 13—Mandan at Bismarck.
- Feb. 20—Mandan at Valley City double header.
- Feb. 24—Mandan at Jamestown.

BY CABLE SAY! HOW MUCH MONEY DID YOU MAKE IN 1921?

Uncle Sam Wants To Know So He Can Tell How Much Income Tax You Owe Him

As the year 1921 approaches many important undertakings confront the citizens of these great United States. No less in importance among these is the properly filing of income tax reports.

Gunder Olson, internal revenue tax collector of North Dakota has issued a public statement in regard to the filing of income tax reports. He has devised a set of questions very thoughtfully arranged and should prove of a great assistance to the public in ascertaining just how much income they have had during the past year.

The following statement is issued by Collector of Internal Revenue, Gunder Olson, District of North Dakota:

With the approach of the period for filing income tax returns—January 1 to March 15, 1922—taxpayers are advised to lose no time in the compilation of their accounts for the year 1921. A new and important provision of the revenue act of 1921 is that every person whose gross income for 1921 was $5,000 or over shall file a return regardless of the amount of net income upon which the tax is assessed. Returns are required of every single person whose net income was $1,000 or over and every married person living with husband or wife whose net income was $2,000 or over. Widows and widowers and persons separated or divorced from husband or wife are regarded as single persons.

Net income is gross income less certain deductions for business expenses, losses, taxes, etc. Gross income, includes practically all income received by the taxpayer during the year in the case of the wage earner salaries, wages, bonuses and commissions, in the case of professional men all amounts received for professional services, in the cases of farmers all profits from the sale of farm products, and rental or sale of land.

In the making of an income tax return for the year 1921, every taxpayer should present to himself the following questions:

What were your profits from your business, trade, profession or vocation?

Did you receive any interest on bank deposits?

Have you any property which you receive rent for?

Did you receive any dividends from stocks or bonds?

Did you receive any income from the sale of stocks, bonds or other property?

Did you act as a partner in any business?

Are you interested in any partnership or other firm from which you received any income?

Have you any income from royalties or patents?

Have you any minor children who are working?

Do you appropriate the earnings of your children? If so, the amount must be included in the return of income.

Has your wife any income from any source whatsoever? If so it must be included in your return or reported in a separate return of income.

Did you receive any directors' fees or trustees' fees in the course of the year?

Do you hold any office in a benefit society from which you receive income?

Answers to all of these questions are necessary to determine whether a person has an income sufficiently large to require that a return be filed and may be the means of avoiding the heavy penalties imposed for failure to do so within the time prescribed.

Organization Perfected For Literacy Drive

Creation of machinery for North Dakota's drive upon illiteracy goes on while workers are waiting to read the final result of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart's attempt to get the names of illiterates of the counties from the census department at Washington. When the names arrive in the state, there will be almost no wait until the men and women marked as illiterates are invited to become members of some class or organization within which they will have an opportunity to elevate themselves from the illiterate numbers. That Mrs. Stewart will succeed, in some method in getting the names is not doubted by the people who have come in contact with her in her work in the state.

That Mrs. Stewart will succeed, in some method in getting the names is not doubted by the people who have come in contact with her in her work in the state.

Appointment of a commission of three to head the work of eliminating illiteracy in the state will be made immediately. Mrs. Alfred Zuger who is representing the club women of North Dakota on a state wide commission will appoint one of the members of this county commission. Mrs. Zuger's appointments will be from the Women's Clubs of the county. Miss Minnie Neilson, State Superintendent of Public Instruction is expected to add to the commission the name of the county superintendent in each county as the representative of instruction. The third member will be a layman but a man or woman who has shown interest in the success of North Dakota's slogan of "No illiteracy in North Dakota in 1924."

While Mrs. Zuger has been and is acting as the inspirational head of the club women forces of the state, she has been more than academic in her interest and has kept a watchful eye and extended a helping hand to a class of illiterates at the North Dakota penitentiary here. When Mrs. Stewart was in North Dakota she visited the penitentiary with Mrs. Zuger. The two women found there a class of 14 illiterates judges by standards of English. One of the men would have been classed as illiterate in the government census report because of his ability to read and write. French with one of the prison men as an instructor these 14 men of all ages started to attain what others hold so lightly, ability to read and write.

One month after the initial class Mrs. Zuger again visited the penitentiary and brought from the class samples of handwriting some of it good some of it cramped and some of it showing a propensity to scrawl, but nevertheless the work of men who were attempting to open a door to the great and to them, undiscovered secrets of the world. It is considered to be not long until all the inmates of North Dakota's penitentiary would be classed literate by the enumerators of the United States census.

Cooperation of the school forces of the state has been assured from the beginning. In a number of the cities it has been possible to find the illiterates. Teachers of the high and grade schools have joined to instruct these in night schools. Accurate statistics are not available but it is the impression of men and women in close touch with the situation in the state that a night school is in operation at practically any point where it will reach any number of people.

TO ENTERTAIN SANTA CLAUS THIS EVENING

Santa Claus Will Visit St. Georges Sunday School This Evening

Santa will pay a visit to the Episcopal parish house this evening. He is having a very hard trip but according to word just received by the rector he expects to make it alright.

A program will be given by the Sunday school scholars at the Christmas tree. We want not only the Sunday school children but the older brothers and sisters and the parents, including their friends. It will be worth while.

We are glad to be able to say that the Christmas Gift service held by the Sunday school last Sunday was a success, beyond all expectations. Over 50 children brought their gifts to the church. As a result three large boxes were packed and sent to Wingo, N. D., where Mrs. C. Edgerton will distribute the same to needy families. We are hoping to make this scheme even a bigger success next year. In the meantime don't forget the Christmas festivities this evening. Come and see the faces of the little tots, especially as they see Santa. Doors open at 7 o'clock promptly.

BRAIN TRAMPS
Hundreds of thousands of jobless men have out loose from their moorings. They are drifting about the country, seeking work on "the other side of the hill."

A census taken now would show great changes in population during the last year.

"For rent" signs are becoming increasingly numerous in cities. That shows one of the human currents—away from the cities, back to the farms and small towns.

Business depression is re-distributing the population.

In normal times of prosperity, wanderers are few, compared with the rest of the population. And yet, we are all vagrants at heart.

The average person is a mental tramp—an intellectual rover. Most of the time, his mind is elsewhere. He is a daydreamer, mentally exploring other lines of work.

That is the reason for most failures—neglecting the present job, the spirit wandering in far countries, imagining himself in the movies, South Seas or positions of great power.

A certain amount of this brain roaming is necessary to keep ambition alive. But real success rarely comes until the brain tramp sends out roots and concentrates in one place, on one job.

The lure of the distant weakens the grasp on the present.

Mental hoboism is a common trait during prosperity. During hard times, it becomes intensified.

Confronted by a problem, the human tendency is to imagine that the way to solve the problem is to evade it and take up something else.

Thus we have a manufacturer seeing only black clouds and convinced that almost any other line of work would be better. We have the salesman, discouraged by dead markets, devoting his powers of concentration largely on the search for an easier way of making money. Likewise, the farmer, who thinks things have gone to pot, and wonders if he mightn't do better in Canada.

All this brain tramping is going to work greater changes in our economic system than the army of wandering unemployed.

The solution of business depression is not in evasion.

When mental tramping is curbed and each of us concentrates on our immediate problems and work, things will begin to move.

Concentration—stimulation of effort—is the solution of every problem.

GROWING
Take two flies. If all their off-spring lived, says a scientist, the ninth generation would total 324,000,000,000 flies, filling a space of 750,000,000 cubic feet.

Flies are like most problems, most evils. They become dangerous only by neglect. The longer the solution of a problem is delayed by a procrastinator, the greater the problem becomes. Do it now.

FORESIGHT
Traffic through the Panama Canal this year has been nearly twice as big as in 1915, despite depression in ocean shipping. The total is larger than in any of the war years.
In great ventures like building the Panama Canal, time invariably shows that Uncle Sam has foresight comparable to a sixth sense.
Government makes many mistakes, but in a general way it steadily makes progress. United States still is a coming country, still in its swaddling clothes. Like China, Uncle Sam is a giant that has only begun to awaken.

FAITH IN FUTURE
Charlie Chaplin's first theatrical contract is discovered in London. It calls for his appearance in a music hall act, "Casey's Court," beginning May 14, 1906.
His salary? About $11 a week!
That was less than 16 years ago. Chaplin now gets about $20,000 a week.
Think of that when you are discouraged. You have no such prospects? You never can tell. Chaplin in 1906 thought his outlook was black as India ink. He had no idea then of what he would be today. Time is a trickster, awarding many unexpected prizes.
Have faith in the future. The goddess Chance favors those who believe in her.

DELUSION
In four weeks, latest reported, wheat exports totaled 29,623,314 bushels. That compares with 33,106,817 bushels in the corresponding weeks of 1920 and 262,757,092 bushels in corresponding period of 1919.
These figures show that wheat is moving to export as usual, measured in bushels instead of changing prices.
The American farmers' real problem is not the export market, but the home market. The home market problem will be solved when all prices are in line with prices paid to the farmer. Not before.

COMERS
How many babies are born in United States? About 2,515,000 a year, according to latest census returns. That's 287 every hour of day and night.

Life is an endless procession, one going out the door as a newcomer enters. Load is passed on, one generation to next.

World is full of big problems. We try to solve them overnight. Few of these problems will be solved in our lifetime. The solvers will be these new babies—or their babies, or, maybe, babies of many generations hence.

That is always the way, each generation hastening its death by worrying over problems whose solution requires the evolution of centuries.

HARMONY
Typewriting now is being taught to music. In Richmond High school, New York City, typists keep time with phonograph music—"Bird Waltz," "Dolls' Wedding March," etc.

The teacher says this gives the students speed and rhythm. In other words, harmony.

Harmony is the secret of all successful work. Waves of success are pulsating through the universe. Get in harmony with those waves, the great creative force, and avoid failure.

Great success is impossible if you are not in harmony or tune with your job.

COMFORT
Shoe manufacturers say that the average American woman is wearing shoes from one to two sizes larger than a few years ago.

That is characteristic of most of the so-called radical changes that have come over women's attire.

Whatever may be said against extreme styles, the tendency is toward greater comfort and health. Tight garments are to the human body what the lemon squeezer is to the lemon.

Edison says the secret of his health and tireless efficiency is that he never wears anything tight to interfere with his blood circulation.

BOOTLEGGERS
A band of bootleggers, operating near the Brooklyn navy yard, sells such powerful hooch that the Naval Y. M. C. A. on Sands street takes in, during one week, "11 unconscious sailors, suffering from alcoholic poisoning. One dead. Another was so violent that he had to be confined in a straight-jacket."

Shove a bootlegger aside and you'll find an undertaker back of him.

LOST
The Alps mountains have taken a heavy toll of lives this year. About 140 climbers perished. Most of the fatalities were due to dispensing with guides to save expenses.

Economy sometimes is really extravagance, for extremes meet. As in most of the big things of life, the great problem is to know where to draw the dividing line.

"The more haste, the less speed."

EDITORIAL REVIEW
Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

SCALED UP, BUT STILL 5-5-3
The one obstacle to the success of the Harding-Hughes naval limitation plan has been removed. Japan is proud of the Mutsu, a fine new battleship almost completed, and it hated to see it scrapped. Its opposition to the ratio 5-5-3 and its insistence on a ratio of 10-10-7 seems to have been merely its method of getting permission to keep the Mutsu.

Well, Japan is to keep the Mutsu; and that means scaling it up a little all around so as to preserve the ratio. The United States will keep the Colorado and Washington instead of the Delaware and North Dakota, and Great Britain will build new capital ships to equal its equipment up. Of course this is a compromise, and leaves naval armament a little heavier than had been proposed; but then great steps in the affairs of men seldom come about without compromise. It is still a great gain. The cut in naval equipment authorized would have been hailed as great if it had been the original Hughes proposal. And the great things still remain that there has been such an agreement among the three great naval powers, that there is a very substantial cut in the three navies, and that the nations have shown that they can take a step toward peace by coming together in this manner. It is a precedent that will bring great results now, but that will yield still greater results later.—Duluth Herald.

OUR STATE FILMS
Or,
What Are They Doing
By
P. O. Williams.

I feel that this subject should interest all citizens of our great state—to realize that, in the form of innocent looking reels of film, you have the most active and persistent intermediaries abroad, boosting for you and your posterity in their instant and persuasive language, blazings upon a sheet of cloth a veritable panorama of your splendid schools, churches, cities, farms, roads and galaxy of dairy herds and beef cattle—leaving a lasting impression upon the minds of all the thousands who are privileged to see them; of your thrift, your wonderful progress in all the things that make for an educated and prosperous people.

The efficiency of Visual Instruction is admitted today by all classes, the professional church men included, and whether used as an advertising medium for the entertainment of the masses or for historical or religious instruction, they all bear witness to the fact that it effectively puts over its message.

It was therefore by no mere chance or love for experiment that Commissioner Dr. Worst gave orders for the first installment of State Films—to the number of 22, embodying as subject-matter, a general review of the state's productivity and prosperity.

However, it was soon discovered that our modest 22 was, to the demand and opportunity for circulation as a drop in an ocean and an insistent and continuous clamor for more films was of daily occurrence, a situation largely due to the activity of our field men and their recognition of the true value of visual presentation. As a result, several contracts for films followed—one after the other as the demand increased, until we totaled a number of 108 reels of an approximate footage of 1,000 feet per reel.

With a view to visualizing every subject common to our state and of interest to people everywhere and, to present such subjects in a continuous, connected and persuasive manner, the seven of these films were divided into seven distinct subjects, i.e., our natural resources in the so-called "Coal and Clay"; our social activities in "Community Life"; our educational institutions in "Rural Education"; our agriculture in "Farming"; our general livestock production in "Livestock"; our pure-bred livestock and state fair in "Fargo Fair"; our roads and beautiful landscapes and places of scenic beauty in "Rambles"—the travelogue of North Dakota.

What Are They Doing?
Five of these reels have, for the past nine months, been running on a circuit superintended by the Y. M. C. A. of New York City and are made a great attraction on Ellis Island, where the great ocean steamers discharge their human freight and where, to tens of thousands, the matter of greatest concern is: "Where shall we go?"

Eight of them have long since made their "bow" to high society, being circulated by "The Bureau of Commercial Economics," Washington, D. C., and are reported to be doing splendid work in removing some of the prejudice and suspicion in the minds of our eastern friends, relative to our western civilization and progress.

Five are going "over the top" in Chicago, the great human filtering plant of the continent from where the bold, the fearless and ambitious are emerging into western life. Our state films here declare for North Dakota, in terms of the best schools, the most fertile land and vast hidden wealth in our natural resources that still remain beyond the comprehension of man.

ROMANCE AND ADVENTURE OF SAILING DAYS RECALLED IN VOYAGE OF CARRIER DOVE

Honolulu, T. H., Dec. 23.—The recent wreck of the four-masted American schooner Carrier Dove on a coral reef off the west coast of Molokai, the "leper isle" of the Hawaiian group, brought to an end an adventurous and checkered sea career that belied the vessel's pacific name, and breathed the days of real sailing when steam was unknown.

As cabled, the Carrier Dove went ashore while enroute from the South Sea island of Tonga to San Francisco with a capacity of cargo of 500 tons of copra. She broke up after several hours of pounding and, with her cargo, was a total loss but the crew was saved. It was the third and last time the vessel had been on the rocks. The two previous times she had been pulled off with only slight damages. On each of the occasions, however, the Carrier Dove ran into extraordinary adventures.

When she rested on the rocks at Levuka, Fiji, in February, 1920, she was extricated and her damages repaired, but Captain Gus Stoltenberg, the master, was refused permission by the British authorities to sail from Northern Pacific Railway company throughout the adjoining states and are giving hope to thousands of tenants, of some day owning a home of their own.

Eight are being similarly circulated by the "Soo Line," the great artery of Canadian immigration from the U. S., and we have confidence to believe that many homeseekers will be diverted from continuing their quest into that country.

An initial number of four reels has just been started on a protracted crusade over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul lines, completing the preparations of the company for an elaborate campaign for settlers, which included the fitting up of two special cars, one as a show car, seating 7 people—the other as a sample car, displaying the grasses and grains, corn, alfalfa, potatoes, sweet clover, fruit, etc., and carrying ten thousand copies of North Dakota literature for distribution.

Five are still circulated by Mr. C. C. Connolly of Devils Lake, who is known far and wide as an enthusiastic campaigner for the Devils Lake country and for the state in general.

Eleven are traveling on a circuit superintended by Prof. A. P. Hollis of the Extension Division of the Agricultural College and according to his report, are in a very great demand and doing excellent work for the state. Three are elaborating upon the port, he said. The British authorities threatened to send a gunboat after him, the captain said, but he ran up the American flag, sailed, "and nothing came of it."

In September, 1903, the Carrier Dove had come to rest on the rocks, this time in the China Sea near Shaw'san. Pirate junkmen swarmed aboard, routed the crew and forced them from the vessel. This led to a report to the state department that the ship had been lost. The pirates were forced to leave the Carrier Dove by heavy weather. Captain C. Jensen, then master, returned with some of the crew and found the vessel looted of most of her portable fittings. A great part of her lumber lingo was removed and she was floated, being repaired and placed in commission later.

On February 14, 1903, the Carrier Dove had arrived in Honolulu harbor on "a madhouse" voyage from Biera, South Africa, with only Captain Jensen, the mate and two of the crew able to work. The vessel's log told the story of tragedy, the remainder of the crew having either died or been left in hospitals enroute.

The balance, or 26 reels, are still maintaining siege of Minnesota under the auspices of the "Publicity Film Company" and continuing to make it uncomfortable for the pine-woods and sand-dune boosters of that state; the people are getting wise to the fact that in North Dakota the land is not only cheap, but absolutely the most fertile in the U. S. A.

In closing I wish to add that much credit is due Mr. Lorne Wilde, our former Deputy Commissioner and Miss Leila Diesent then one of our field agents, for the choice and arrangement of the subject matter and the titling of the films.

White females outnumbered white males in 1920 in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and District of Columbia.

"If there is any such thing as making a man over entirely new, Tanlac has done that very thing for me," said Otto Seibitzchka, 553 Edmond St., St. Paul, Minn., well-known railroad man.

"A medicine has some class to it that can take a man who was eating hardly enough to keep a bird alive and put him in such good shape that he can eat three corking big meals a day and enjoy every mouthful, but that is only a small part of what Tanlac did for me."

"My stomach is in apple-pie order now and all the rest of my troubles have disappeared. I feel as young and active now as I did fifteen years ago, and my only regret about Tanlac is that I didn't get hold of it three years ago when my troubles first started."

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts

One day Nancy and Nick were out in the orchard. It was May and all the world was beautiful with a million lovely white and pink blossoms. They had played outdoors since early morning and now it was afternoon, a warm, drowsy, sweet-smelling, dreamy afternoon, just the sort of time that fairies get very busy with folks and things.

"How pretty everything is!" said Nancy suddenly looking up at the pink and white roof over their heads. Here and there little patches of blue sky peeped through and birds of many kinds were fluttering about among the branches.

Oliver Oriole was there. He'd just arrived and he was at his nest—yearling with his new little pale-yellow wife sitting by watching him admiringly. The Robin Red Breasts were using the same old house that they'd had last summer, and Belinda Bluebird was building her own nest in a tree by the fence corner while her lazy bunch of a husband called directions to her from the top rail.

Nick had spied something on the ground and wasn't paying the least bit of attention to things overhead.

"Nancy!" he cried, pulling his sister down. "Just look! It's the Green Shoes! The Magic! Mushroom must have been here and gone away again! It's a pity we didn't see him!"

"Dear old fellow," said Nancy regretfully. "I wish he'd waited. But he's always so busy I suppose he had an errand some place or other in one of the Fairy Queen's Kingdoms. But hurry, Nickie, we must be going to have an adventure. Let's put on the shoes right away!"

"First thing I'm going to do," answered Nick, "is to wish myself up into that funny little house in the old apple tree that daddy built when he was a boy."

And he had his own shoes off in a fliff.

ONE THROWN BALL WRECKS GEORGE McBRIDE'S CAREER

BY BILLY EVANS

A badly thrown ball from the outfield has cost George McBride his position as a big league manager. McBride tendered his resignation to the Washington club several days ago. That badly thrown ball gave "Ze" Milan his chance to show his worth as a big league leader. Milan is being prominently mentioned as McBride's successor. During fielding practice, just before the game played at Washington early in August, the incident occurred that proved most unfortunate for McBride and equally fortunate for Milan. McBride, as was his custom, was batting the ball to his infielders. Another Washington player standing nearby was hitting fly balls to the outfielders. In this connection I might say that I have often wondered why so few players are injured, while the final practice of the day is engaged in. Usually a half dozen balls are being thrown about in a reckless manner. Earl Smith, playing the outfield, after catching a fly ball returned it to the plate. Smith has a good arm and cut the ball loose. Instead of going to the player who was batting the fly ball, it struck a rough spot, took a freakish bound and hit McBride on the side of the face. Was Badly Injured The ball struck just below the eye and to the side of the nose. It inflicted a bad cut, and later paralyzed that side of the face, as well as playing havoc with McBride's nervous system. McBride was taken to a hospital and was out of commission for two weeks. Milan was appointed manager to act in McBride's absence. He made a most remarkable showing. Under his direction the Washington club won eleven straight games. That run of victories causes a lot of the experts to consider the team a pennant contender. It is a rather unusual fact, that the day McBride returned the winning streak was broken. McBride gave great promise in his first year as a big leaguer. However, his health has been so shaken by the injury, that he has decided to retire from active work, temporarily at least. Milan, who never gave much thought to managing a ball club, now has such an ambition. This is the way he put it to me one day. "Yes, I would like to get another chance at managing a big league club. I would like to see whether or not winning those eleven straight was a mistake."

SPEED BALL IS NEWEST SPORT AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Dec. 23.—New athletic games are few and far between nowadays, but one originated and tried out at the University of Michigan bids fair to have more than a temporary vogue. "Speed ball," a combination of football, soccer and basket ball, as originated by Elmer D. Mitchell, director of intramural athletics at Michigan, has proven a decided success in inter-fraternity contests at this university. The game is played on a regulation football field with all the markings with the exception that the lines at the interval of five yards are unnecessary. A regular soccer ball is used. The one big difference between "speed ball" and soccer is that the ball may be caught when it is in the air. Such a ball when caught may be passed or kicked, but the catcher is not allowed to run with the ball. A player may advance the ball in two ways and still keep it in his possession. He may either try and run down the field, kicking the ball lightly as he goes, or he may throw it high in the air and run ahead and catch it—provided no opponent interferes. This latter mode of advancing may not be repeated until some other play has been made.

There are three means of scoring. The first is by means of a goal kick which is done in the same manner as in regular soccer. In this case the ball must go between the goal posts and under the cross bar. Three points are given for this kind of a score. A forward pass, received in the 10-yard zone behind the goal line, gives the team completing the play two points, while a drop kick over the goal bar counts one. It is also possible to score on the opponents' personal fouls, the rule for which is the same as in basket ball. Technical fouls give the opposing side a chance at a free drop kick from the point at which the offense occurred. These rules allow a player to try numerous tricks and it takes considerable skill and, above all, quick thinking to be a good "speed ball" player. In the games which have been played at the University of Michigan this year this has been shown beyond a doubt. One of the greatest tricks in the game is in the kicking of the ball in such a way that it bounces into one's own hands, for while a player is not allowed to pick a ball off the ground, he may catch it if it is in the air. Another trick which has been developed is that of drop kicking the ball high into the air and running forward and recovering it while it still is a fly ball, thus being legally able to repeat the process.

SPORT ANGLE

Minor leagues of the higher classification have refused to place themselves under the draft. It was hoped that such action would be taken at the Buffalo meeting. Many major league magnates attended the session and urged such action. Regardless of the good intentions of the major league club owners, they spoiled them, when they proceeded to pay all kinds of fancy sums for untalented players. If a minor league club can get from $10,000 to $75,000 for its best players, why should such clubs enter into an agreement with the majors, that would limit such possibilities to $10,000 at the most? It is hardly probable that the majors would be willing to agree on a price greater than $10,000. Possibly $7,500 would have been more to the liking of the majors. After advocating such a plan, the paying of fabulous sums spoiled any good work that might have been done along these lines. A minor league magnate who would agree to a plan that would cut down his profits certainly would be lacking in judgment. The majors, that is most of them, have a plan to cut down the possibilities of the minors. Clubs not as prosperous as the New York Giants, are a unit for fixing a sum that the majors shall be permitted to pay to the bigger minors. Such a ruling would place the majors in a combine as to the price, rather than have the minors agree to it, as would be the case under the draft plan. R. E.

Football fans the country over, are hoping Notre Dame and Center College meet in the proposed game on the coast. Sport enthusiasts always like to be able to point to a certain individual or team as the champion. This is seldom possible in football. Football schedules are arranged by the different colleges in a rather haphazard fashion. It is impossible to arrange these schedules in such a way that it will be possible to determine the champion in each particular section. Most colleges have one or two rival teams they desire to beat. These certain games are regarded as the high spots in the schedule. In most instances the winning of those games causes the student body to regard the season a success, even if all the others are lost. Usually the schedules are arranged with the intent to keep the eleven in top form for these particular contests. In a good many cases the intervening contests are looked on in the nature of practice games. This year offers an unusual possibility. If Center and Notre Dame play, the winner of that game will be highly regarded. If the winner of the game could be matched with the winner of the California-W. & J. game, we would just about have the college champion. All of which is probably nothing more than a pipe dream, but it's interesting to even think about.—B. E.

Billy Evans Says

Western football proved superior in the inter-sectional games played between the east and west. Notre Dame beat the Army and Rutgers, in easy fashion. Chicago triumphed Princeton. Nebraska was too much for Glenn Warner's Pittsburg eleven. What feature of football, if any, was the dominating factor in giving the west the edge? Was there any difference in the style of game played by the two sections? Football is played under the same rules east, west, south and north. Therefore, the possibilities of the game in each section are the same. There is very little difference in the grade of players. That narrows it down to a question of coaching. I would say the superiority of the west was the direct result of the coaching system. The west unquestionably had the wider and more versatile attack. Western coaches seemed to instruct their players to take a chance. In the east the mentors seemed much more conservative. Eastern coaches are inclined to play the conservative game, and hold the forward pass as a last resort. A play to be used only when desperate means are necessary. In the west the forward pass is a regular part of the attack. With many eleven it is the most dangerous feature. In one of the western conference games I saw, one of the teams used a forward pass on the second play of the game that netted 60 yards. The west certainly appears to have developed the pass to a far higher state of proficiency than the east. The passes are usually well masked. The defense is constantly kept spread by the "threat." Coach Rockne of Notre Dame gave the east its best sample of the forward pass as used in the west. They are still talking about some of the formations and deceptions used by Notre Dame against West Point.

right to his services for another year. The work of O'Connell will be watched with greater interest this coming season than that of most major league stars. When a club pays $75,000 for an extra player, fandom immediately gives him the constant once over. O'Connell is not quite 20 years of age. This is his second season in professional ball. He came to San Francisco from Santa Clara college. O'Connell was an outfielder as a collegian. He has converted into a first baseman. He is a hard hitter, fine fielder and very fast for a big man. Two years ago, Fred Mitchell, then managing the Cubs, who trained on the coast, saw O'Connell in an exhibition game. It was before the opening of the Coast League season. Mitchell offered $10,000 for him after the game. Mitchell is a good judge of ball players. Looks as if he had the right dope on O'Connell. Will the huge price of $75,000 affect O'Connell's play? It will cause the New York fans to expect big things. Fancy prices have caused a lot of bush league stars to flounder. What will be the fate of O'Connell.

Evans Cites Greatest Grid Feats Or 1921

BY BILLY EVANS. It is the sensational play in football that gives the spectators the real thrill. A brilliant run, a long forward pass, a spectacular drop kick, are just a few of the gridiron headlines. If these particular plays happen to decide the game, they carry the additional punch that goes with such a feat. The season of 1921 was no exception to the rule. It produced a great many sensational plays. Open play, made possible by extravagant use of the forward pass, was responsible for a great many of the thrillers. Here are a few of the most important: Halfback Miller of University of Pennsylvania, made the only victorious full field run from kickoff to touchdown. Playing against Gettysburg, on the first play of the game he received the kickoff on his own 15-yard line and ran the length of the field for a touchdown. The score, Pennsylvania 7, Gettysburg 0. McKenna, sub quarterback on the University of Detroit team, made one of the most sensational runs in the west. Playing against Tulane, with the score 10 to 7 against Detroit, McKenna sprang into the limelight. With only a few minutes to play, he caught a punt on his 15-yard line, and ran 85 yards for a touchdown. Score, Detroit 14, Tulane 10. The on-side kick is seldom resorted to in modern football, but it won an important game in the west. Drake kicked off. Lewis of Missouri caught the ball. He ran a few steps and then sent a loft punt down the field. When he kicked, several Missouri players were behind him. One of them, Kershaw, picked the ball to the falling punt, placed it up, while several Drake players were wondering what to do, ran the remaining distance for a touchdown, the only score of the game. The longest drop kick to win a game in the east was made by Krewell of University of Maryland against Rutgers. It was made from the 40-yard line. Buell of Harvard ran a close second in the matter of a drop kick that won a game. Against Holy Cross he kicked from the 39-yard line for the only score of the game. Aldrich of Yale won everlasting fame in the Princeton game by his two drop kicks. Those two kicks were Yale's margin of victory in 13 to 7 score. Ralph Gilroy won a niche in the Princeton hall of fame by his run against Harvard. With the score standing 3 to 0 in favor of Harvard, and less than five minutes to play, Gilroy took a long forward pass from Snively and ran 50 yards for a touchdown. That run decided the game, although Princeton won finally, 10 to 3.

Perhaps the most sensational pass to win a big game, was made in the Illinois-Ohio State contest. With only a short time to play and neither team having scored, Illinois tried a forward pass. Peden hurled the ball to Waiquist. It bounded from his arms, struck Captain Myers of Ohio State on the chest, and bounded back into Waiquist's arms. He ran 25 yards for the only score of the game. It was the only touchdown made by Illinois during the season, and killed State's chances of winning the Western Conference title. Unquestionably the most talked about run of the season, despite its short length, was made by McMillin of Centre. Having carried the ball to Harvard's 22-yard line, McMillin dropped back as if to pass, then took the ball through the left side of the Harvard line, after getting away from three tacklers. Then he cut diagonally across to the right side, eluded a number of Harvard players, and scored the touchdown that gave Centre a victory over Harvard, in perhaps the most talked about game of the year. No individual feat stands out more prominently than that of Fullback Thomas of Chicago against Illinois. Entering the game in the third period with Illinois leading 6 to 0, Thomas gained 100 yards through his own efforts. He scored two touchdowns, the final one as a result of his carrying the ball 44 yards in consecutive plays, finally crossing the Illinois line.

McGraw Pays Big Price For This Recruit

Will Jimmy O'Connell prove a sensation or a bust? O'Connell is the first baseman of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League. He is the "busher" for whom the McGraw of the New York Giants paid $75,000. Despite the price he will not be delivered until 1923. O'Connell is such a big favorite on the coast that the San Francisco club would make no deal unless given the

THREE MONEY WINNERS ON ENGLISH TURF

SOL JOEL, LORD ASTOR. (BELOW) JOCKEY DONOGHUE. By NEA Service. LONDON, Dec. 23.—Men of non-British blood swept the platter clean in turf honors in England in the season just closed, Americans being well to the foreground. The heaviest stake winner for the year was the South African diamond magnate, Sol Joel, who won purses totaling $135,000. Second came Lord Astor, whose father was a New Yorker. He became a naturalized Briton and was then made a peer. Astor won $100,000. Another heavy winner was young Marshall Field of Chicago. It was his first season on the English turf. He captured $40,000 in stakes. Field is the owner of the champion turf two-year-old of the English turf "Golden Corn." Joel, in addition to winning the greatest amount of money in stakes, also was the greatest number of races, 37, and bred the most winners, 38. Steve Donoghue, an American jockey, topped all the other jockeys in the number of winners he rode. This is the eighth successive year that he has done this. Browne Carlslake, and F. Bullock, who ranked next to Donoghue, came from Australia.

It seems the football statisticians have overlooked the best drop kicking feat of the season. In a record of the long distance kicking feats for the season just closed, it was given out that the one best drop kicking feat of the year was from the 45-yard line. Robert Fitzke of Wyoming was given credit for such a performance. And it was widely heralded as the best of the season. It looks as if the statisticians had kicked one, in conferring such an honor on the western player. West Virginia Wesleyan lays claim to the honor of having on its team the champion long distance drop kicker of the season. Halfback, Lester Radman, turned the trick, a kick from the 51-yard line. The record feat came in the first game of the season against the strong University of West Virginia. Eleven West Virginia Wesleyan was beaten 35 to 3, but the lone three points were the source of much joy to the vanquished team. The West Virginia Wesleyan team didn't get closer to the opposing goal than the 40-yard line, and only on one occasion. After Wesleyan had been held for downs, Radman dropped back to the 51-yard line and booted the ball over the bar. The kick was not without its sensational features. It was half blocked by an opposing lineman. It carried through a waver, struck the cross bar, rebounded for a second, and then fell over on the other side of the posts for a field goal. It is a very interesting fact that the three points scored by this kick were the only ones registered by the West Virginia Wesleyan eleven in the ten games of the 1921 season. Incidentally it was the first field goal Radman kicked in two years.—B. E.

12 WOMEN MADE MAYORS, MANY "ALDERWOMEN"

By NEA Staff
London, Dec. 23.—Who gave British women the right to vote? Women leaders here admit Britain was slow in taking up woman suffrage, but they declare the movement made more progress here than anywhere in the world after it got a start.

And to prove it they point to twelve British cities with women mayors or mayoresses as they call them here.

So in cities where women are sitting on town councilors—there is Britain for Ireland.

All three political parties—Liberal, Conservative and Labor—each with a strong women's organization within the party.

And at the close Lady Astor the feminine M. P.

making little pits with her hands for mother and father and their play of hand work this year is very fine. This is done at all women of which they have few as they are in school and industrial work from eight in the morning until four in the afternoon besides doing much of the work of the house.

At the end of the week in the town the children begin to play the street game with their hands. This is done behind closed doors and when the doors are closed open it is pretty hard to tell which one would be considered best if a prize were to be given for the room giving the best display of Christmas cheer. After the Christmas decorations are taken down and carefully folded away for the next year.

In a large measure as possible children are allowed to go home for the holidays. This year about 75 of the students will be at their homes and 50 will remain at the school. While the school believes the home is the place for the child at Christmas time everything is done for those that remain to make their Christmas a happy one.

There is a tree on Christmas eve and Santa comes with his pack of toys to gladden their hearts. Parents send packages from home and these are all kept for the tree. If any are forgotten, old Santa takes a hand. Nuts and candy are provided for all.

A committee of the teachers arranged a party on Christmas evening and there is a dinner and a movie during the day.

Supervision of play is extended throughout the holidays. This week the special attraction is a just finished toboggan slide while the ice is very smooth. Out of doors play seems to have an especial attraction for the children of the deaf school and their rosy cheeks and shining eyes attest the good time they are having.

URGES MORE INCENTIVE TO BRIGHT SCHOLAR

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 23.—The University of Minnesota as well as practically all other colleges and universities is failing in its duty to the "brilliant student" who is driven to a life of dance and song because of lack of incentive to work hard.

BRITISH WOMEN MAYORS TOP TO BOTTOM: MRS. WILLIAM OWEN, MAYOR OF SWANSEA; MRS. MITCHELL, MAYOR OF TYNE; MRS. NORTH, MAYOR OF SMITH.

The university faculty does not put scholastic work on a basis of incentive with social pleasures and youthful play.

"The faculty must undertake the more important duty of providing opportunities for the unusually capable and the serious minded student to make the most of his powers and to make the best use of his time. Our requirements for graduation are much as the barely passable student can meet in four years. The most brilliant student is compelled to spend the same time to obtain the same degree. This does not offer to the strong student a reasonable incentive to work. The poorest student is expected to spend two hours or more in preparing a lesson. The average student can do it in half the time. The brilliant student needs but a few minutes for preparation and for a large part of the time can 'get by' by bluffing."

"An incentive to serious work must be furnished by enabling the student to gain something—time or money or power—by putting his whole energy into his work."

Dean Johnston declares that the only road to great intellectual growth and strength is the road of hard work and strenuous efforts and that the course which is easy for a student fails to keep him on the hard work road and encourages him to take to the highways of pleasure.

We are not only not stimulating greater effort in our better students, he continues, but the colleges of today are actually inducing weakness and causing deterioration in many youths of great natural talents by expecting only mediocrity by removing stimulation, and allowing the student's mental powers to atrophy.

Dean Johnston declares that the "laggard" student should not be permitted to remain in the university, as he holds up the others who are anxious to learn and not only wastes his own time and money but also the time and money of the state.

MANY BEYOND ALL HOPE IN STARVING RUSSIA

12 Million in Urgent Need Declares Mayor Carroll of American Relief

London, Dec. 23.—Major Philip H. Carroll, Moscow Director of the American Relief Administration, who has just arrived in London told the newspaper men here that relief of the famine in the Volga provinces was almost beyond the capacity of charitable aid.

"Ever since June 1919 I have been engaged upon relief work in Central Europe," he said, "but nowhere have conditions been as shocking as they are on the Volga today. In other countries under-nourishment was the principal cause of distress, but here it is starvation pure and simple. Our estimate is that there are 12,000,000 requiring assistance. Our most sanguine hope is to be able to keep 10,000 children alive through this winter. For thousands there is absolutely no hope, and the aggregate amount of suffering will be something appalling."

"Though we even have to feed children in the streets of Moscow and Petrograd the greatest need is in the villages where the failure of the crops is most acute. It is not an exaggerated fiction—would that it were—that peasants are living on roots and bread made from a mixture of reeds and oily clay. I myself have handled this so-called bread and witnessed the terrible intestinal troubles resulting from the consumption of it. The Soviet government is working very well indeed to relieve the distress. They have carried out 60 per cent of their seed-sowing program but at the most this cannot bring in more than one sixth of the average summer yield. One of the most tragic things I have ever seen was the spectacle of those peasants many of whom are taking starvation this winter, sowing their next year's grain. They admit they quite frankly that they would not live to see it harvested."

"The Soviet stopped the dangerous movement of massed refugees to the cities by sending food from Moscow and the report that we have suffered from Soviet pilfering is arrant nonsense. The pilfering has been negligible. Death is the decreed penalty for it."

Major Carroll is returning to Moscow at once. "The Volga is beginning to freeze," he said, "and no time can possibly be lost in getting food into the more remote provinces before the waterways are closed. There is a hard winter before us," he concluded.
